

Vasiliki Valantou is a graduate of the Department of History, Archaeology and Cultural Resources Management, of the University of the Peloponnese” with a MSc in Cultural Heritage Materials and Technologies and a specialization in Thin Section petrography at the University College London. During her collaboration with the Department and the Laboratory of Archaeometry, she has been a member of the Programme «Mobile Care for the Documentation, Characterisation and Conservation of Movable Cultural Heritage Artefacts from Remote Areas in Greece (MoCaCu)» 2013-2015; a member of the Organizing Committee of the 41st International Archaeometry Symposium held in Kalamata Greece in May 2016 as well as of the 3rd, 4th and 5th ARCH_RNT Symposia organized by the Laboratory of Archaeometry; served as Administrative Officer for the “MSc in Cultural Heritage Materials and Technologies (CultTech)” and for the “MA in Administration and Promotion of Cultural Resources and the Environment”. Currently is a member of the EU funded Programme “KALAMATA 1821: Roads of Freedom.

Her research focuses mainly on pottery and mortars through mineralogical analysis, using a polarized microscope and a Scanning Electron Microscope coupled with an Energy Dispersive Spectrometer (SEM/EDS), investigating issues of chemical composition and manufacturing technology. In latest years Cultural Heritage has been also a main field of interest as she is a licensed tourist guide, has attended seminars in Museum Education and has collaborated in digital applications for Cultural Heritage projects.